

Hello Teodora,

We are glad to bring to your inbox a quarterly newsletter exclusively dedicated to FE members. This is to highlight FE sustainability updates and useful opportunities. You will continue to receive the fortnightly edition of the e-news where you can find a range of relevant news, events and resources for the education sector.

Launching a new FE Support Package

To help colleges fulfill their sustainability potential and recognising the challenges that Further Education (FE) has faced for some time, EAUC has launched a new FE support package to foster knowledge exchange and provide additional support.

We support the #loveourcolleges campaign, and want to see the Government prioritising investment in FE to ensure it can make its invaluable contribution to our economy and community. To play our part, we have created a range of tools for our FE members, including:

- A new FE-only knowledge-exchange network to ensure colleges can gain insight and share best practice with others in a similar position to them. Click here to join the FE Network
- This dedicated FE-news
- A new FE Special Advisor post to ensure we have the right expertise guiding us. We are pleased to have Gil Snook, former Head of Estates at City College Plymouth leading on this
- The SORTED Guide to Sustainability in Further Education

We are in dialogue with FE members to establish what other support we can provide, and will be creating resources to supplement this package. If you have any further suggestions on how we can best support your activity, please get in touch at info@eauc.org.uk.

Sector Achievements

Student Engagement

Winner

Gender based violence in the East End of Glasgow is a never ending problem, but Glasgow Kelvin College has committed itself to tackling this societal challenge. By becoming an active supporting member of the local Scotland White Ribbon campaign, the College has raised awareness amongst its teaching staff and learning community through organised workshops and events.

"Receiving the Green Gown Award for our work in delivering and promoting the White Ribbon Campaign against gender-based violence has been an incredibly valuable and heartening experience. Recognition for this work greatly helps to further heighten the profile of the campaign, and generates additional momentum to support our ongoing engagement with the community.

"The application process itself was a highly beneficial experience, in that it allowed us to revisit the project, from start to present, highlighting the progress made; reminding us of successes; and reflecting on the methods used to overcome challenges faced. Winning the award is a fantastic achievement to mark the campaign's progress to date, and further motivates us for the future."
