

JISCMail: Your Tool to Access the EAUC-Scotland Network

What is a JISCMail list?

A JISCMail list is essentially a mailing list. Each JISCMail list holds the email addresses of anyone that has signed up to it. If you send an email addressed to a JISCMail e.g. IHAVEAQUESTION@JISCMAIL.AC.UK that email will go to everyone signed up to that list. You will not however, be able to see the individual email addresses of others signed up to that list, nor will anyone else be able to see your individual email address. They will only see the JISCMail address. This means you can engage with the community on that list, without sharing your email with the unknown. The JISCMail posts are also carefully monitored by the EAUC to ensure appropriate content and use by all members.

Why should I use JISCMail?

JISCMail is a tool by which you can contact other professionals in the sector who are working on, or involved in some way with a certain topic. The Scotland EAUC network has a total of 10 JISCMail lists (as detailed below), giving you the opportunity to contact hundreds of other professionals with a single click of the send button. You can use them to send out information, ask questions, seek advice or even share resources, and we use them to inform about upcoming events relevant to the members, such as upcoming Topic Support Network events. A TSN is not just an event run by EAUC-Scotland, it's a community of people interested in a particular topic of sustainable practice i.e. energy, waste etc. You can be part of this community by joining any of the following JISCMail lists. For more information on all TSNs please see the EAUC-Scotland webpages here.

How should I use JISCMail?

Remember that JISCMail lists need to be used wisely. No one wants hundreds of emails a day about something that is not relevant to them. People will sign up to one of the JISCMail lists below because they are interested in the topic attached to that list. If you have a question, or information you want to put out, make it relevant, clear and concise. The network will love you for it. If you use JISCMail inappropriately, you will be removed from the list.

How can I join a JISCMail list?
